Cambridge University Press/Foundation Books, 2008. Softcover. Book Condition: New. First edition. Musings in Prose traces the development of essays as a genre in English with an emphasis on two of its major forms: the one, informal, personal and familiar, and the other, formal, impersonal and expository. This anthology consists of a judicious mix of texts that are historically representative and those that deal with vital contemporary controversies. It broadly conforms to the recommendations made in the latest UGC model curriculum and encourages an interdisciplinary approach to the study of literature. Key features:- - Representative samples from the masters of English prose - Brief biographical sketches of the authors - Carefully designed exercises to develop critical appreciation - Extensive glossary to help students with layered texture of meanings - Thematic outline to facilitate easy comprehension of the essays Contents Introduction 1 Of Goodness and Goodness of Nature 2 The Spectator Club 3 Dick Minim the Critic 4 The Two Races of Men 5 The Worship of the Wealthy 6 The Ethics of Power 7 Humanities vs Sciences 8 Freedom and Democracy 9 The Accountable School 10 Decolonising the Mind 11 The Environment 12 The Postmodern Mind Printed Pages: 160.
